Entrepreneurship

Entrepreneurship is emerging as an important and viable career option in the 21st century and has the potential to positively shape the career trajectories of many individuals. Entrepreneurship is increasingly becoming a part of the world of work due to its ability in enhancing economic growth, innovation, and employment opportunities.

Becoming an Entrepreneur

An entrepreneur generates one or more new business ideas, then through the process of research and development, packages the idea into a new product or service for the market place.

Career Competencies

Self-awareness, career exploration, research, planning, intention building, and implementation of career plans have been identified as important career competencies and are especially important when becoming an entrepreneur. A well-developed identity achieved through self-awareness assists individuals in identifying good career opportunities which complements their values, interests, characteristics and preferences, and can lead to enhanced career development, stability and success.

Developing Entrepreneurial Intention and Behaviour

Enhancing a positive attitude towards entrepreneurship, developing self-efficacy, and creating an environment supportive of entrepreneurship is strongly correlated to individuals following through with entrepreneurial goals and engaging in entrepreneurial behaviours. This can increase capacity for career success. Additionally, being apart of an environment which fosters values such as self-directedness, stimulation, achievement, and universalism, assists in developing a positive entrepreneurial attitude (Yang, Hsiung, & Chiu, 2015).

Networking & Mentorship

‘Individuals who have entrepreneurs in their social networks are more likely themselves to participate in entrepreneurial activity’ – Terjesen & Sullivan, 2011. Bosma & Leve (as cited in Terjesen & Sullivan, 2011).

Mentoring relationships have been shown to enhance entrepreneurial attitude and motivation where entrepreneurs with mentors within their industry have been shown to be more alert to new business opportunities. 3 Mentoring relationships can be established through social and professional networking, new business contacts, entrepreneurial groups and organisations, and educational settings. Those who are embedded within an entrepreneurial environment and participate, engage, and contribute within that environment may be more successful in establishing beneficial mentoring relationships.

Entrepreneurship & Employability

With careers in the 21st century being less defined, and linear career progressions offering secure employment no longer being the norm, individuals are needing to manage their own careers and recognise and create their own opportunities. Entrepreneurial concepts can be utilised by individuals in enhancing their careers and employability. Adopting the idea of career entrepreneurship, which refers to identifying unexploited opportunities and making career investments to achieve a higher objective and career reward (Korotov, Khapova, & Arthur (2011), support supports career ideologies such as career development and lifelong learning to maintain employability.

Commercial & Social Entrepreneurship

Commercial entrepreneurship previously has been the driving force of most enterprises where the central focus is placed upon the identification of an opportunity and delivery of a product or service. However the concept of social entrepreneurship is increasingly becoming a larger driving force for enterprises around the world. Social entrepreneurship recognises a social issue or need and can be defined as innovative activities with a social objective.
